

Report: The Human Health Benefits of Improving Forest Health in California

Investigating the Links Between Forest Management, Wildfire Smoke, and the Health Sector

CCST
CALIFORNIA COUNCIL ON SCIENCE & TECHNOLOGY

BLUE FOREST

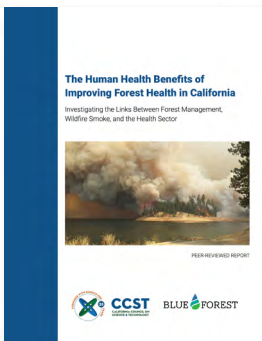

CCST.us | @CCSTorg

BlueForest.org | @BlueForestConsv

Expert Briefing | Peer-Reviewed Report | Released: Sept. 2023 | CCST & Blue Forest

King Fire | Pacific Southwest Forest Service, USDA.

Read the Report

Briefing:
Thu. 9/21
1:00 PM PT

Register \(Zoom\)

Report Presentation by

Jennifer Montgomery

Report Steering Committee Chair

Ret. California County and State Government

Teresa Feo, PhD

Lead Project Manager and Author

CCST

Kimberly Quesnel Seipp, PhD

Project Manager and Author

Blue Forest

Signe Stroming

Author

Blue Forest

Kirsten Hodgson

Contributing Author

Blue Forest

Register

With health impacts from wildfire smoke estimated to be one of the largest costs of wildfires, a new study from CCST and Blue Forest shows that improving the health of California's forests can not only reduce the risk of wildfire, it can also benefit people's health. Authors and Steering Committee members will present the report findings and recommendations with slides and Q&A. Following the briefing, a separate call for credentialed media will be held with the author team.

CCST.us
@CCSTorg

BlueForest.org
@BlueForestConsv

